About PetHeartPrints.com

We are interested in pets of all types, shapes, colors and varieties. There are many as you will know. While some people love the little cudly ones others love the big scary pets.

Whatever your pet loves are you know you need them all to behave in public if they are that type of pet of course.

This PDF mainly focuses around dogs as these are the most popular obedience trained animals around today that are popular with many nations. Traing dogs is possibly the easiest and hardest thing to do and get right. Please keep reading and find out how simple for you this can actually become.

Mistake 1

Your Dog Is Not Human

While this may seem like an obvious statement you would be surprised as to how many people think their pets actually are their little children. This may seem cute especially when they dress them up or put them in their purse to carry them around but it should be noted here they are and will always be an animal with all the attributes of an animal. Some of these attributes are actually unhealthy for their human masters....

Dogs communicate mainly through smell and you will see your own pet smelling the backside of every other dog they come across. The reason for this is the faetal matter they smell communicates many things to the dog doing the smelling. They can tell if the dog they are smelling is on heat and ready for mating. They can tell if the dog they are smelling is familiar to them from scents they smell around their neighborhood and probably many more things we will never know...

Because of the last paragraph you can see that not only do dogs smell other dogs rear ends they also lick them. Yes some even eat faeces from the ground amongst many other gross things I need not go into here. It is suffice it to say that if dogs do all this then having them lick your face or your childrens or babies faces is strickly forbidden. The transfer of germs from dogs mouths to humans is great and should be avoided if possible...

Treating your dog as a pet is all fine but they should also know who is the Alpha Leader in their new pack and it must be you. There is no equal in a dog pack. You must be the top dog for your pet to first and foremost understand that what you command must be listened to and followed above all else....

So now you know that your dog is a dog and not a family friend or any other such nonsense you will find the next two mistakes people often make will make sense to you...

Mistake 2

What A Puppy Does Is Cute and Should Be Encouraged?

Simply because nearly everything a puppy does could be considered cute makes this step very hard to follow. Especially if this is your first puppy. This does not mean it should be overlooked though. In order of importance this is probably the most as the wrong behaviour usually starts when your pet first comes home...

Not all puppy behaviour is bad or dangerous but whenever you see your puppy exhibiting a behaviour more than once ask your self this question. Would this behaviour be acceptable if performed by a full grown dog. For example having your pet puppy greet you by jumping up at you may be harmless and cute as a puppy but it is not in a full grown Rottweiler though...

I hope this makes you look at your puppy in a different light now. Watching them grow can be fun if care is taken to encourage what we want more of from them and discourage what could potentially be dangerous to not only us but can be very undesirable in a full grown dog as well...

If you ever are lucky enough to see a mother dog with her new litter of pups you will notice how she treats them. The reason I say this is people think disciplining their puppy is cruel but the puppies mothers will do this far more heavy handed than most puppy owners. She does this because she knows instinctively it is for the benefit of the puppy in the long run and is usually tied in with it's survival...

Mistakes will be made and that is fine as long as you learn from them. You will find that your puppy will enjoy knowing what it is and is not allowed to do as far as being a member of your family is concerned. Dogs thrive on consistency and generally love to please their owners so show them you care and help them grow into the being the best they can be.

Mistake 3

Using The Wrong Training Voice

I know you have a high voice and you cannot change it, right? Wrong! Even the highest voiced person has been angry and has growled at someone. This is the perfect voice to use when training your dog. Do not concern yourself if those around you have an opinion on your voice when training your puppy. The voice you need to use for bad behaviour is this one...

Of course when your puppy has done well you use your high happy voice to praise him/her. The important thing here is that you use two different toned voice commands one high pitched for praising and the other low toned for disapproval. Your pet will quickly come to understand if it has pleased you or annoyed you...

The most important part of this is you need to be consistent. This means you need to be prepared to praise or scold your pet EVERY time it is required. The more consistent you are the quicker your pet will learn your commands. It is so surprising for me to see people scold their pet in the same voice they praise them. The dog does not understand why it is being praised in a deep growly voice or scolded in a high pitched voice and actually confuses your pet considerably...

Do yourself a favor and help your pet become the best behaved and happiest pet around. Just following the instructions in the three mistakes pages here and you will almost guarantee this for you and your pet. The joy of having a well behaved, alert and ready to please pet dog is a joy to behold for real and you will also have the praise of family members and others who know you and your dog...
